

STUDENT GUIDELINES

BEFORE YOU VISIT

Please review the guidelines below with students prior to arrival. We hope to foster an enjoyable learning environment for students of all ages. As the chaperone, please encourage full participation in the experience through your own actions.

Please only bring what is necessary for your visit. We ask that large backpacks and bags be left at school or on the bus.

There is no food or drink allowed in the exhibition.

All of the art is displayed in an accessible fashion. Although tempting, please refrain from touching of any art, displays, shelving, stands, or plants.

There will be other guests enjoying the exhibit as well; remember to keep your voices to a low volume.

It is important to stay on the garden paths, as there are very fragile plants.

Please use only pencil in the galleries; no pens or markers.

We also ask that while you are writing or drawing, please remember to sit on the benches or on the floor. If you sit on the floor or stand, remember to not blocking any entry ways or gallery passages.

Always walk through the exhibition; do not run. We don't want you to hurt yourself, others, or the art.

"I'm lucky that my work appeals to people of all ages. [...] People for centuries have been fascinated with glass, colored or crystal, as it transmits light in a special way. At any moment it might break. It's magic. It's the most mysterious of all materials. People look at the glass and just wonder"
